Report

OF THE COMMITTEE CHOSEN BY THE LEGISLATURE OF RHODE ISLAND, TO EXAMINE INTO THE CONDITION OF THE RHODE ISLAND, TO EXAMINE INTO THE CONDITION OF THE RHODE ISLAND COAL COMPANY.

(C)—The committee appointed to take into consideration the expediency of authorising a loan to the Rhode Island Coal Company, and a bill introduced for that purpose, respectfully report—

That they have personally visited the mine in Portsmouth, and examined the works erected, the excavations made, andiparticularly the quality and quantity of the coal accessible, together with the facilities constructed and now employed for bringing it from its bed, and have made such inquiries as satisfy them of the following facts, viz:—

That the property of the Rhode Island Coal Company consists of about 40 acres of land in fee, and includes a wharf and dwellings to accommodate 50 workmen, with a barn, carpester's and blacksmith's shop, a large and substantial engine house, with buildings and sheds attached, 160 feet long, a steam engine of 40 horse pewer, with three boilers 22 feet by 30 inches, and a cast iron pump 290 feet in length, 9\frac{1}{2}$ inches bore, 6 feet stroke of the piston, and weighing \( \sigma_{\text{o}} \) 90 pounds, being capable of raising 350 gallons of water per minute, with winding gear for raising the coal from the pit, all of which is entirely new. The engine and other machinery was made by William Burdon, of Brooklyn, New York, and is of superior construction and workmanship.

The excavation or shaft extends into the mine upwards of 280 feet, at an angle of 38 degrees, and upon it is laid a double railway. At a distance of 280 feet down this shaft, there are lateral shafts or openings to the right and left, each about 180 feet in length, upon which railways are also laid. With these and other facilities, which are now nearly completed, the agent of this establishment states, that a car load (say about 1800 lbs.) of coal can be delivered at the surface once in five minutes, which, from experiments performed in our

Carbon, Silica, Alumina, 13 fanganese and a trace of sulphur, 100

And your committee, from their own experience, and om information derived from others who have used uch of it, have no hesitation in pronouncing it equal any coal now in use for most domestic, and all manu-to any coal now in use for most domestic, and all manufacturing purposes.

The value of the real estate belonging to this establishment for agricultural purposes, independent of the coal, is supposed by good judges to be $5000. It has usually been taxed at $4000 when the mines were not worked. The cost of mining improvements is stated by the agent to be 35 or $40,000; and we should judge, from appearances, that the money had been well applied and judiciously expended. In addition to the 40 acres before mentioned, the company own the coal under 75 acres more aljoining, with the privilege of mining thesame. It may be proper here to mention, that the depth now attained is from 80 to 100 feet perpendicular below any joint ever before reached at these mines, and the system of mining is altogether superior to that formerly practised, being the same practised at the Pennsylvania mines.

Regarding, as we do, the great public importance of this work, in its tendency not only to reduce the price of see essential an article as fuel, but also to retain money in our own state, instead of paying it to others, and that it is the duty as well as policy of all wise governments to encourage the development of hidden (sources of wealth within its own limits, and thereby promote the industry and increase the comforts and happiness of the community, your committee report the bill referred to their consideration, and recommend the loan proposed.

The large halls are nightly thronged with beauty and fashion, a fact which cannot for a moment be thought strange when the great amount of entertainment that is given is taken into consideration—the crowning feature of all, however, is the remarkable Gipsey, who by her prophetic knowledge, sends all away in amazement. The dancing, songs, animal magnetism, &c. on the stage are highly interesting.

For instance, suppose a broker in Wall street should become interested in a Western bank, by the deposite of mortgages with the Comptroller, for a certain amonn, say $10,000. The bank then fails, and the broker was his influence to prevent a sale of the mortgages alleging that they would be sacrificed by forcing a sale in consequence of putting off the redsmption, the bills fall to avery low rate. The broker buys them up at 50 cents on the dollar—the bills so purchased may be returned to the Comptroller and the mertgages cancelled, the broker making $5,000 by the operation out of the pookets of the people. In cancelling the mortgages, the best would, of course, be selected, leaving those of but little value for sale, to redeem the outstanding notes that remain. When a bank fails, it should be closed up as speedily as possible. The public can gain nothing by delay.

$4,033,162 2,395,231 4,748,645 715,483 909,446 This decrease has taken place at that season of the year when the banks usually expand. The cash liabi-lities of the banks are now $10,364,45 and the cash assets $6,107,112. This, in the aggregate, shows a considerable degree of strength, and such as ought to enable the saks to resume without delay; but it is evident that all of the institutions have not the same stability-some of them are exceedingly weak, and it is no doubt the influnee of these which prevents the strong ones from re suming at once. It is highly probable that one or two of these will be obliged to close up, as the first of September, the time fixed by law for resumption, approach es. The contraction necessary to resumption in the southern sections is now severely felt in the markets of the north, in the falling off of the spring business. The goods retained in the country for consumption, during the present year, will no doubt be much less than usual, while the exports of produce must be great in quantity , if low in value. We observe in the Parliamentary reports a statement of Mr. Hastie, the member for Paisley, in which the pro duction and value of wheat, corn and barley in the United Kingdom is given. This statement we have compared with the same items in the United States, accor ding to the census.

plus. The statement given by Mr. Hastie, from what the above was taken, is as follows. He stated :— The present rental of England and Wales at Sociasa, Irelan s, £46,351,404 The present annual value of produce of all descriptions for Eugl-ud and Wates, Scotland, Irelan 1, £132,500,000 22,915,000 41,500,000
